Speaking: Professional Self-Introduction

Simulation of professional introduction in interviews or meetings

Why is Professional Introduction Important?

- First impressions in interviews or meetings
- Builds confidence and professionalism
- Helps establish identity and role
- Frequently used in job interviews, presentations, and teamwork settings

Structure of a Self-Introduction

- 1. Greeting
- 2. Name and Background
- 3. Educational or Professional Experience
- 4. Skills or Specializations
- 5. Current Goals or Purpose of Meeting

Sample Self-Introduction (Interview)

- “Good morning. My name is Rudi Hartono. I recently graduated with a degree in Information Systems from Universitas Bina Sarana Informatika. During my studies, I completed an internship as a backend developer, working mainly with PHP and MySQL. I enjoy building efficient web applications. I’m excited about the opportunity to work in your company and contribute to meaningful projects.”

Practice Activity

- Create your own self-introduction using the structure:
 - Greeting
 - Name and current position or education
 - Key experience or skills
 - Reason for attending or applying
- Pair up and present to each other in class.
